

Summer jobs on hold during strike

By ANTONELLA ARTUSO, QUEEN'S PARK BUREAU CHIEF

Last Updated: 3rd July 2009, 11:42am

Have your children had trouble finding a summer job because of the civic strike? If so, we want to hear from you. Call the Toronto Sun city desk at 416-947-2211 or e-mail us at torsun.citydesk@sunmedia.ca

The Toronto City website says it all - "There are no summer job opportunities posted at this time. Please check back."

The strike by the city's inside and outside workers has put an end to the usual summer employment opportunities at the city during a time when they find themselves increasingly competing with laid off workers for jobs.

On the city's website, under a summer employment heading, job hunters are told that all opportunities have been cancelled and they shouldn't forward their resumes.

"But please revisit this site after the labour disruption as these job opportunities will be re-posted and you will be required to reapply," the site says.