

Another Opening Day At Dufferin

OPENING day at Dufferin. That's what yesterday's advertisements said. Opening day at Dufferin... that would mean a cheap field of eight beaten-up beetles tip-toeing to the post for the first race, while the jockeys hold their whips in their teeth and finger their caps because Mr. F. S. Orpen—the announcer says—is banging out the national anthem on his office piano. And the melody does sound familiar.

DUDE FODEN

There'll be jostling and shoving in the wooden sheds where the sellers are located. Huge Wilf Umbach will be admonishing hesitant bettors to get down their dough to avoid being shut out, and "there's a short line at the next window, gentlemen... no need for waiting." Whereupon the speculators take their time. They know the steeds won't go to the gate until the light goes out on the ancient frame stand at the paddock bend. And the bulb will burn while there looks to be another buck of risk capital available.

So you chug to Dufferin at a leisurely pace for another opening. You know the lady along the side street will keep your parking space open on her front lawn, between the Chinese elm and the purple petunias. And the gravel-voiced guy with the Little Green Sheet will be willing to tout you on to a winner, maybe. If the line-ups are long in front of the mutuels, you can persuade a house frau to buy you a ticket in the women's salon, an additional feature of Dufferin's post appointments.

Anyhow, there always is room on the infield, where the grass is green, the company is chatty, and you can get an excellent view of the riders' caps as they bob down the home lane to the finish line.

What is so rare as a day in June? Why, the answer must be: Autumn afternoon, with a Racing Form under your arm, and a sawbuck to blow on improvement of the breed at Dufferin. And it's a logical place for improvement.

But Where's the Blacksmith Shop?
BUT you're living in the past, man. This is a different kind of opening day at Dufferin. There isn't a horse in sight—although they do have pictures of some in the brewers' retail store that's up near the spot where the gate used to stand for races of "about seven furlongs." And the music is canned—not the vibrant, elevating stuff which Mr. F. S. Orpen used to coax from his piano—ballads such as "Bye, Bye Blackbird," when a steed named Some Pigeon won a pot for $1,500 claimers. Today, you're getting "Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter." And they must be writing with a scratchy pen.

There are arrows which point to the Hobby Lobby, the Beauty Salon, the barber shop, the maternity shop. But the blacksmith shop? If it's still around, you'll have to ask for directions. Free yardsticks are available to adults and free suckers will be handed out to children accompanied by their parents. In the old days, the suckers were taken—with or without their parents.

Midway of the backstretch, you can join a Christmas lay-away club. That's about the place where a one-to-three shot spit out the bit, one November afternoon, and a flock of folks went to fish and chips for Christmas dinner. And there, coming into the far turn, where the bullring riders always were making their move... unless your eyes have grown dim from reading the charts... what do you see but the Elina Sewing Centre?

Ah, progress, it's an inevitable thing. The infield sward has turned to parking pavement. When it echoes, in the early morning hours, to an eerie clatter of steel on macadam, the unimaginative say it's the noise of the workmen putting the final links on Dufferin Plaza, a multi-million-dollar shopping area.

But the neighbors, who parked the autos of race-goers for decades, and encouraged the jockeys from their upstairs windows, and trapped the rats that strayed from the barns... they know better. They recognize hoofbeats when they hear them. The ghosts of Royal Tread and Yellow Metal and old Ford Dearborn are taking their morning works, they say. Ghosts have no time for progress.

As you turn to leave you walk on historic ground. Here it was that Dude Foden should have been killed, according to all the laws of averages. He lay on the track while half the field galloped over him. But the Dude got up, spitting out teeth. Now, there's a sign which reads: "Ladies Celusuede Panties."

Rocky Has No Desire to Return

THUMBNAILED Tales: Jack Kearns, the old rapid spender who piloted Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight title, is daydreaming when he talks of getting Rocky Marciano to do a comeback for a fight-to-the-finish extravaganza with Floyd Patterson. Rocky, who was a head-table celebrity at Wednesday night's big sports dinner in St. Catharines, said he had plans to go into business in Florida, where he now lives. Has no intention of returning to the ring, the Rock insisted.

Bob McCulloch, one-time defensive end for Balmy Beach, is the new manager of Ted Reeve arena, succeeding Johnny Fitzgerald, who is leaving today to work for an advertising agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Conn Smythe became grandparents for the 11th time when their daughter, Miriam, wife of Jack Hault, assistant box office manager at the Gardens, gave birth to a baby girl Wednesday. The Haults now have a son and four daughters. Harry Stuhldreher, now an executive of U.S. Steel, but renowned as a member of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen, is an admirer of the Canadian National Exhibition. He worked at the Ex in his student days.

Tonight's TV fight: Rory Calhoun vs. Rocky Castellani, with Calhoun a 3-1 favorite.
