

sparkles with controversy.

On October 2, 2010, as part of Scotiabank Nuit Blanche, the Wallace Avenue Footbridge in West Toronto will be transformed into a huge, shimmering chandelier.

For one night only, electric trains are coming to the Junction Triangle to celebrate the neighbourhood's rebellious spirit.

For details, visit railoflight.ca and scotiabanknuitblanche.ca

—The depiction of quiet, clean, efficient —electric rail might be disturbing to some.

ZONE A, EXHIBIT 26

—Where Wallace Avenue meets
—the West Toronto Railpath

—A free all-night contemporary art event
—October 2, 2010 | 6:57 p.m. to sunrise

—Presented by artists Richard Mongiat and Jeff
—Winch and the Junction Triangle Rail Committee.

Many thanks to our generous sponsors:

